All the property hereinbefore described is situated in the Town of Redwood City, County of San Mateo, State of California.

Dated, Redwood City, June 1st, 1917.

ALBERT MANSFIELD,
Attorney for said Town of Redwood City.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS

The Board of Supervisors met in regular session Monday, June 11.

A telegram was read from the Liberty Bond Committee of San Francisco asking the board to take some action toward the purchase of Liberty War Bonds for San Mateo county. The telegram stated that Monterey county had already voted to buy $100,000 worth of the bonds. While all the members favored the purchase of the bonds, the question arose as to the right of the board to use any of the funds of the county for such purpose. After considerable discussion it was decided, on recommendation of Supervisor Brown, to refer the matter to District Attorney Swart for him to look up the law and have a report ready by Thursday, when the board held a special meeting to take action regarding the purchase of the bonds.

The report of County Auditor J. J. Shields showing the amount of money that can be drawn against the several funds of the county during the month of June was received and ordered filed.

W. B. Lawrence, representing the San Mateo Council of Defense, appeared before the board and urged that some action be taken toward recognizing the names of the different persons registered in the different precincts printed in suitable cards and posted in conspicious places. Acting upon this suggestion, the board, on motion of Brown seconded by Francis, instructed County Clerk Nash to co-operate with the County Council of Defense and arrange for the printing of necessary number of cards.

On motion of MacBain seconded by Hickey, the contract for the painting of the exterior metal and woodwork of the courthouse be let to Mr. Doxsee, his bid being the lowest submitted at a previous meeting.

Roy W. Curran of Redwood City submitted a report showing the result of the election held June 5, 1917, for the purpose of forming the proposed Visitacion Highway Lighting District. Forty-one votes were in favor of the proposition and only one was opposed. A resolution ordering the establishment of the above district, was adopted on motion of Hickey seconded by MacBain.

Attorney Lee T. Ross of the firm of Ross & Ross appeared before the board relative to the cutting of trees on the Garrett place at San Mateo, which had taken place some time ago and had been ordered stopped by District Attorney Swart. Attorney Ross wished to know if any authorization had been given by the board for the cutting of the trees, so he could be governed accordingly. He was assured no such authorization had been given.

Supervisor J. V. Neuman reported that he had completed the survey for the "Skyline" boulevard through the Dimond property along the summit of the mountains to connect the new La Honda road with the old La Honda road. He stated that the owner of the property promised a right-of-way for the boulevard.

A communication was received from Miss Elizabeth B. Skeele, executive secretary of the Social Service Commission, recommending the withdrawal of aid heretofore allowed for a number of persons in different parts of the county. The action of Miss Skeele in the above was ratified by the board, on motion of MacBain seconded by Hickey.

Roy W. Cloud, superintendent of schools, appeared before the board and asked that he be allowed $100 to cover expenses connected with extra work in his office during the next three months. The request was granted, on motion of Francis seconded by Brown.

A resolution presented by District Attorney Swart ordering the Ocean Shore Railroad Company to remove certain obstructions from Montara Road near Farallone City on the coastside, was adopted, on motion of Francis, seconded by MacBain.

GORDON M. SEELY GRADUATED

Gordon M. Seely, the bright young son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Seely of this city graduated with honor from the local high school last evening after being beset with numerous difficulties which would have discouraged an ordinaary boy. Last January he went to Sacramento to act as secretary of Senator M. B. Johnson and after an absence of three months from his class room he returned to the school to make up his work in order to graduate with his class. He was equal to the task. He arose early and burned his midnight oil for weeks in order to take forty or more examinations. On the first of the week he completed his work as well as keeping pace with his class and last evening his efforts were crowned with success. Any young man possessing this energy, ability and stamina is certain of success, his future is assured, no one need doubt his success. Young Seely will make his mark for he possesses all the qualifications to reach the top round of the ladder in whatever he may engage. Just watch Young Seely climb the ladder of fame. His Alma Mater will certainly be pround of him.

THE WEEK'S EVENTS IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Redwood City as Seen Through Incidents Gathered Here and There

John Dielmann left on Monday last for Agua Caliente Springs in Sonoma county to spend three weeks.

Dr. J. L. Ross is spending his annual vacation at Camp Curry in the Yosemite Valley. He motored to the valley and will return in a few days.

David Flynn ,the local agent for the Ford automobile, sold during the week a touring car to William Maloney, a roadster to J. B. Perry and a runabout to Charles Gould.

The Redwood City Commercial Bank has forwarded to headquarters subscriptions for Liberty Loan bonds amounting to $20,450. The tidy sum was shipped late yesterday.

Attorney F. A. Reynolds will move into his new quarters in the Sequoia Theatre building today. Owing to his increasing business he found it necessary to move from his old quarters to larger apartments.

Mrs Lila Kirkpatrick and her niece, Janet Ferguson, will depart on Monday next for Long Beach to spend the summer. Miss Ferguson is the popular domestic science teacher at San Mateo high school. Her parents reside at Long Beach during the summer months . Her mother is a former Redwood City girl and was one of the pretty Murch sisters, who were reigning belles here some years ago.

Jack Barnett, former junk dealer of this city, was arrested on Wednesday by W. H. Lampkin for soliciting for the sale of second hand goods in the county and was found guilty and sentenced by Judge Seely to pay a fine of $25. When he left the court room Barnett was arrested by Town Marshal James Coleman and sentenced by Town Recorder Mansfield to pay a fine of $20 for soliciting within the city limits without a license.

Registration Day in San Mateo county passed off quietly, nothing occuring to interfere with registration officers in their work. About ten per cent of the population of the county registered. The complete returns in the county clerk's office show that 3,733 young men obeyed the mandate of the government. Five register ed since Tuesday making a total registration of 3,738. These belated young men offered various excuses for not appearing on Tuesday. One young fellow frankly admitted that he was off on a joy ride while another claimed that he had married a wife. The three others said their autos broke down and could not reach the clerk's office in time.

Organized Union Baptist church services will be held every Sunday afternoon in the Pioneer Building near Five Points at 3 o'clock. All are invited.

Mrs. A. W. Pike was acquitted by a jury in the superior court on Thursday of a charge of an assault with a deadly weapon upon Frank O. Stallman while he was gathering red berries on her premises last December. The jury was out nearly an hour when it returned with a verdict of not guilty. J. J. Bullock appeared for Mrs. Pike while District Attorney Swart prosecuted the case.

The trustees of the Redwood City grammar school have appointed Andrew E. Monteith, who graduated with S. P. McCrea from Stanford some years ago, principal to take the place of the late R. W. Mantz. There were 68 applicants for the place.

SEQUOIA UNION HIGH SCHOOL

Twentieth Annual Commencement Brilliant Well-Attended Event Last Night's Occurrence

The twentieth annual commencement exercises of the Sequoia Union High school took place in the Alhambra last evening. The valedictory was delivered by Donald Thompson, the oration by Comte O'Connell and the salutatory by Mary Murray. The commencement address was delivered by Mrs. A. M. Porter. Then followed the remarks by Principal McCrea. The graduating class consisted of the following pupils: Marguerite Muller, Mary Murray, Mabel Paul, Camilla Stafford, Ruby George, Marie Uhlenberg, Donald Thompson, Paul Stevens, Gordon Seely, Oscar Olsen, Comte O'Connell, Wesley Locker, John Issac and Louis Behrens of Redwood City. From Woodside are Frances Fisher, Charles Faso and John McKee. Grace Carleton, Ethel O'Keefe and Ray Boudreaux from Menlo Park.

L. P. Behrens delivered the following address to the class and delivered diplomas to the graduates:

Ladies and gentlemen, patrons of the Sequoia Union High School and members of the graduating class of 1917:

As I come before you again for the purpose of presenting you with high school diplomas as an official recognition of the fact that you have completed the work prescribed by the board of education, I wish to call your attention to some of the duties which will soon devolve upon you.

When a man expends large sums of money in the construction of a splendid building, he expects to receive increased returns on his investment. When a railroad corporation pushes its lines into wild and undeveloped regions, it is with a view to promote travel and traffic to such an extent that the new business will pay for the original outlay as well as dividends on the investment. The government as well as private parties is now putting large sums of money into irrigation and reclamation projects with the expectation that in the near future, the arid sections of the country will become the cultivated farms of prosperous people.

Our tax payers have expended large sums for your education, having lately given you increased facilities, such as the splendid manual training building with its first class equipment and having recently acquired what is commonly known as the "baseball field," now the Sequoia Union High School Recreation Park, where healthful sports can be enjoyed.

From these few illustrations you will catch my thought. The investment of money, of time or of talent, is made with the hope and confident expectation that the returns from such investment will prove the wisdom of it.

Statistics show that most of the failures of any enterprise to reap suitable reward is due to inadequate investment or to improper preparation, which should be considered as one and the same thing. If my reasoning is true, it follows that the great question which comes up before every youth in our land is "What prepdration should I make in my early years in order to insure the greatest measure of returns in mature life, with which to aid myself, my family and my neighbors?"

The members of this class certainly made an excellent choice in deciding upon a course of careful training in the high school. Statistics show that those, who take time to prepare themselves thoroughly before entering upon any line of special work, will advance rapidly enough to more than repay them for the time spent in such preparation. The high school is intended to give you a basic preparation upon which you can build as best suits your future purposes.

Thus far I have spoken of your years of getting ready for service for yourselves. I should now like to speak a word of your debt to others. You have been recipients of the bounties of the county, state and district for the last twelve years. How are you going to repay the county, state and district for all they have expended in your behalf?

It frequently happens that a farmer in his zeal for large crops and larger profits finds that he is forced to let his filed remain idle for a season, or even longer, because he has robbed the soil without giving back to it the necessary fertilizing nourishment which is so vital to the crops.

It is the old principle of life—to live the fullest life and to get the most enjoyment and satisfaction out of it, you must give out from the store-house of your accumulated treasure a large portion in order that your own lives may be enriched. Do not expect to gather to yourselves continually without giving something back. It has been tried so frequently and the failures have been so numerous, that it can be laid down as a rule that selfish accumulation of intellectual attainments or of material gained, results in the limiting of ones powers to enjoy his possession or to be of real service to himself or his fellows. I therefore plead with you that you view your life plan in a broad way that you will plan to give back to the world the results of your training in such goodly measure that your own lives may be enriched while the lives of those about you will be made brighter and happier.

These thoughts are worthy of your earnest consideration as well as emulation, and in your leisure moments, seriously meditate upon them and hold fast to that which is good.

It is with a shudder that I allude to the awful world's strife that is now forced upon our nation. Never in the history of man, has there been such misery and slaughter of human beings. Never in the history of the world is more demanded of the true American boy and girl. And you, young men, who are just budding into a new life, God forbid that any of you be called, but if such be your fate, remember you owe a duty, first to your parents, then to your school and teachers, and be reminded constantly of the lessons taught you, and you will be sure to do honor to our high school and the country you serve.

Your teachers furnished the board with excellent reports of your work. In many ways you are a model class. Your aims have been high and your spirit has been especially commendable. You have the rare distinction of being the largest class ever graduated from Sequoia, nine girls and eleven boys, twenty in number, showing our school is constantly growing, both in usefulness as well as in numbers. And another distincition is yours —you are graduating from the oldest high school between San Jose and San Francisco, and, while we are not the largest, I do not hesitate to say we are turning out graduates that compare favorably with any in our state, and we wish you the greatest success in any line of work you may chose to take up. It will give us great pleasure to know that you have decided on a university or normal course, to supplement the work of the high school, but whatever your future developments and advances may be, you may rest assured in the abiding interest of your friends, your teachers and the board of trustees.

At this time, would it not be befitting for us, just for a moment, to bow our heads as an evidence of our sincere sympathy and respect to the memory of the late David A. Curry, who was the first principal of our school. Mr. Curry, with the assistance of his able wife, practically carried this school's work for the first four years. His death in the prime of life was a sad blow to the entire community where he was universally loved and esteemed.

Some six years ago, I had the pleasure of presenting my daughter with a diploma, and now I have the added joy of presenting my son with a like instrument. This happiness rarely comes to a father, and it gives me pleasure almost beyond words. And now members of the class of 1917, I have the honor of presenting to you on behalf of the board of trustees, our hearty congratulations and best wishes for your future success, and also these dipolmas, which symbolize the successful completion of your year's work in Sequoia Union High School.

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

Story Number 11 by Claude Fox Depicting Game Bird Life On Bay and Marshes

When "Bill" and myself had fixed up our club room down in the old granary to our complete satisfaction, we next turned our attention to the loading of shells preparatory to making our first duck hunt. With the loading tools there was also cleaning rods about fifteen pounds of No. 6 shot, eight pounds of Eagle Duck powder, five hundred caps and plenty of gun wads, so we had a goodly supply of ammunition to start with and we both felt confident we would be able to kill ducks enough which we could readily sell and replenish our stock when it became exhausted. We found however later on that we had a great deal to learn about hunting and shooting the web-foots and I often had occasion to call on father for assistance in procuring the necessary ammuintion to keep that No. 12 breech-loader in action.

There also came with the shotgun two very interesting books written by Capt. Bogardus on the subject of wild game, especially ducks, and how to hunt them, together with a small pamphlet issued by W. C. Scott & Sons, the makers of the gun, as to its care and more particularly describing the proper method of loading the shells that were to be shot from it.

Now you boys of today must understand that at the time of which I am now writing, we used nothing but black powder, the best make being the Eagle Duck brand, which I have just mentioned, which retailed at eighty cents per pound. There was also Hazzard's double F-G and triple F-G, good grades of powder ,and a brand called Sea Shooting, which was the cheapest we could procure. Smokeless powder had not been invented and the mere mention would be deemed sufficient ground for a man's arrest on a lunacy charge, and through due process of law, he would soon find himself an inmate of the nearest insane asylum, keeping company with the man who had the temerity to assert that at no distant day the flying machine would be a reality. Paper shotgun shells were unheard of, all those in use being made of brass, which we purchased at two dollars and a half per box or ten cents each. As a matter of fact the shotgun which father had given me was the first breech-loader, to the best of my knowledge, to reach this neighborhood, and it is no secret, when I tell you that the gun was laughed at and really scorned by the old timers. It only took but a few years however for the opinion of shotgun wielders to change, with the result that the old guns with the ramrod attachment were gradually laid away and seldom resurrected from the closet or shelf which became their last resting place. Today a muzzle-loader is really looked upon as something in the nature of a curosity.

There were a few loaded shells with the gun, but the majority were empty as a result of the big shooting match a year previous. There were one hundred brass shells, just four boxes, and it became necessary for "Bill" and I to get those shells properly loaded, or at least a portion of them, before venturing forth into the unknown waste of marsh lands south of town. I read the small pamphlet over very carefully to "Bill" and we followed the instructions contained therein up to a certain point and there we made a decided change. As boys are often wont to do, we thought we knew more than the man who made the gun . In less than a month we both came to the conclusion that W. C. Scott & Sons really knew something themselves. The first thing to do with an empty shell was to remove the exploded cap, with a tool furnished for that purpose. We found how to do that very easily. Then there was a capping machine with which the cap should be pressed down firmly so it would be flush with the base of the shell. That came easy also. Oh, I tell you, we were getting along swimmingly, or at least we thought we were. The next thing to do was to set the guage on the powder measure to three and one-half drams, fill it, pour the powder into the shell, put in two wads and press them down until the powder crackled. Now that is where the hitch came, the exact point where we conceived the idea that the instructions were wrong. Hadn't we seen the men at the shooting match loading their muzzle loaders press the wads down on the powder and use the ramrod half a dozen times before pouring in the shot? Of course we had. That was what made the gun shoot strong, so we reasoned. There could be no question about it, the instructions were clearly wrong. So I dug up a little wooden mallet, the last relic of a boy's chest of tools I once possessed, and with it we pounded down those wads on the powder until the black grains of the explosive more than cracked. That was a decided improvement on W. C. Scott & Sons' method of loading shells, and we knew it. The rest was easy. An ounce of shot with one wad on top and the shell was complete. How many times since then I have had a good laugh when I thought of our boyish stupidity. We had been hunting less than a month when the muscles of our right arms from the shoulder to the elbow were black and blue, and the worse feature of it all was we were ignorant of its cause.

How that gun did kick. We both tried to figure out what was the cause of that recoil. But we were game to the core, as the saying is, and kept on hunting whenever the opportunity offered. At last my arm became so sore and swollen that I was afraid mother would see it and the gun would be laid away for the balance of the winter. I did not care to speak to father about the condition of my arm, so in my dilemma I appealed to Lon Cook to inform me why that gun spoke at both ends. I took good care not to tell him how my arm was. "How do you load your shells" was the first question he asked me. I shall never forget the hearty peal of laughter which shook his whole body when I told him how we pounded the wads down on the powder, and I really felt ashamed of myself when he told me in the future to load my shells as the instructions stated, and particularly to just press the wads down until the powder crackled. "Bill" and I had learned something right on the start. We did as Cook instructed us, with the result that our sore arms came gradually back to their normal condition, the recoil was lessened to comparatively nothing, and the little gun was soon doing more deadly execution among the feather inhabitants of the marsh land.
